

Press Release

The Arte Institute, a non-profit organization that promotes culture and art from Portugal, is launching an online platform for inter-cultural inspiration and innovative artistic dialogue between the many communities in New York and Portuguese artists.

At arteinsitute.org, visitors can participate in a unique exchange between traditional and non-traditional views of how art can bridge audiences with different cultural backgrounds.

As a first major event, the Arte Institute will organize the first ever New York Portuguese Short Film Festival that will take place at Anthology Film Archives on June 2 and Union Square Park June 3 in New York City.

Twenty young and promising Portuguese filmmakers will show their short movies to the public. The Festival will run simultaneously in New York City and Lisbon, Portugal.

The Arte Institute is proud to work together with the City of New York Parks & Recreation to make this event a unique opportunity to further strengthen the cultural ties between Portugal and New York City.

Press releases will be distributed via email, and will be posted online. Feel free to check the site often, for all updates and news on all our events.

Want to join our press list?

Please email – press@arteinstitute.org

Arte Institute will provide, upon request, a collection of photographs and film stills of those participating at the New York Portuguese Short Film Festival.

To receive all the materials, just contact the Press Office at press@arteinstitute.org